HARMONY IS KEYNOTE OF CONVENTION

"Homesteading and assisting homesteaders."
"Water question."
"Immigration and conservation of natural resources."
"Citizen labor on federal public works."

"Improvement of the present public utilities act."
"Laws for protecting working men."
"Perfection and extension primary election laws."

"Mainland appointments."
"Protest against the Democratic proposition to send mainland lepers to Molokai."
"Right to a vote in congress."
"Statehood."

"Woman Suffrage."
"Endorsement of liquor laws."
"Settlement on queen."
"Wharves and landings."
"Education."

"Promotion of commerce by the opening of Kailhi harbor and general improvement in all harbors by federal government."
"Public health with strong recommendation touching tuberculosis."

"Territorial assistance to promotion with governmental representation."
"Providing for the people of the city and county of Honolulu, to revise their charter."

"Protection of the plant and fruit industries."

"Establishing a fish hatchery with ultimate view of securing federal aid."
"Extension of the civil service based on the merit system, to embrace practical examinations in both English and Hawaiian."

"Better taxation laws."
"Modernizing the system of accounting of the territorial and county governments."

"Social and public welfare."
"Reapportionment of senators and representatives of the legislature."

"Your committee must not be understood as even intimating that all of these subjects shall be treated in the platform, or that others shall not be. We merely wish to aid as much as possible your work."

"With best wishes for what we know will be a harmonious and successful convention."

When the convention was called to order at 10:30 o'clock the Popula theater was fairly well crowded with delegates and onlookers. The roll call made by E. H. Crawford, the secretary, showed an attendance including those represented by proxy of 137, and Mr. Shingle announced a quorum was present.

Delegate Kuhio did not put in an appearance during the morning session. Senator Rice was present for time. J. C. Cohen, candidate for mayor, was present and followed the proceedings with interest. A number of other candidates for various offices were on hand. Oahu turned out the largest number of delegates almost all elected by proxy.

Mr. Shingle set forth the object of the convention in a short address published below, which he made before retiring as an officer of the convention. He touched on the optimism and confidence of the Republicans, the renewed vigor with which they are marshaling their forces for the coming election, and in passing he branded the Democrats on the score of their new tariff, and the Panama toll policy, etc. His address was interrupted by cheers and long applause. It followed:

"Gentlemen:
"It is apparent on every side that the people of Hawaii were never more convinced of the capacity and ability of the Republican party to successfully handle the affairs of the government than at the present moment. That is why there is going to be a overwhelming Republican success in November."

"Perhaps all of us do not know the why and wherefore of the initiative referendum and recall, but we need no course in college to understand the difference between prosperity and depression. Maybe we are all a little bit shy on the proper construction of the Hay-Pauncefote treaty concerning the exemption of Panama canal tolls, but no studies of the intricacies and technicalities of international law is necessary to enable us to understand that a reduced price for sugar does not help our territory very materially."

"President Wilson's watchful waiting policy in Mexico may be all right so far as that revolution-ridden republic is concerned, but it doesn't make dividends, and doesn't provide work for the unemployed, and doesn't promote enterprises and doesn't increase wages in this country."

"Democratic Rule Fatal."
"Not a man in this territory, outside of the insane asylum and the recently arrived colony of mainland of rice-holders, dresses as seriously as the Democratic rule, so far as Hawaii is concerned, is not worse than the Mediterranean fruit fly, the cotton boll weevil and the cane-borer."

"The enumeration of the wrongs which this territory has suffered at the hands of the Democratic party would consume too much time. On the tariff bill, we got it in the neck at every turn. Sugar, we all know about. The duty on rice cut in two. Wool and beef on the free list. Duties on fruit were reduced and a proposition to put a small duty on bananas defeated. All of this to reduce the cost of living. In Hawaii the Democratic party has already succeeded admirably in reducing the cost of living by leaving us with but little money to live on."

"In conclusion, gentlemen of the convention, I, as the retiring territorial chairman, feel gratified that it is no disrupted, disgruntled organization which shall pass under the control of my successor and his colleagues on the committee. The gathering here today of earnest, intelligent Republicans devoted to the principles of that party and eager to do all in their power to aid our fight for the prosperity which is bound to follow Republican success is sufficient evidence of that fact. Satisfied am I that their important labors of today will be harmoniously, intelligently and ably attended to; that you will adopt a constructive platform and one sufficiently progressive in its ideas as to obviate the necessity, if any ever existed, of a third party movement within the territory; and that you will all return to your homes determined to make the protest against Democracy and depression practically unanimous."

"Again thanking you, and expressing confidence in you, I call for nominations for temporary chairman."

After Senator Judd had been made chairman, and Mr. Wilcox secretary, the former named the following credentials committee: Senator H. B. Penhallow, chairman H. S. Rickard, A. C. Kaaua, James A. Achong, A. F. Clark, Joseph Medeiros and Henry Blake. An adjournment was then taken for the committee to make its report.

The report of the credentials committee was made at 12 o'clock, and was adopted. It showed that there were 120 delegates present in person or by proxy out of the 145 returned.

Following this Chairman Judd named the rules and permanent organization committee, composed of J. J. Kamakahi, D. K. Kaupiko, William Walsh, G. G. Guild, L. M. Judd, F. Fernandez and C. Lovell.

At 1 o'clock this evening adjourned until 10 o'clock, the evening at which time the platform committee will be called upon to make its report.

There was a lively debate on the length of the adjournment, some wishing the convention to stand over until tomorrow morning, others for the work to be cleaned up tonight even if a all-night session were required.

Abe Lewis, Jr., spoke in favor of the latter plan, and his idea prevailed. By meeting tonight we will have an attendance of all the delegates now present, but if we adjourn until tomorrow only a part of them will be here," he said.

It was made practically certain early today that S. C. Dwight of Oahu would be chairman of the platform committee.

The proposed platform, as agreed on by the committee of 15, is to be printed in English only and be ready for distribution this evening. The platform committee is composed of J. D. Lewis, Jr., D. Kaupiko, Fred O'Brien, Mr. Lewis, Jr., William Henry, G. P. Cooke, A. N. Hayserden, Antone Pereira, R. W. Breckons, W. C. Achi, S. C. Dwight, A. Menefoglio, Karl Roendahl, J. C. Kamakahi and A. D. Casano.

The special resolution committee is composed of H. S. Rickard, J. C. Kamakahi, E. K. Kaaua, R. A. Drummond, W. A. Clark, C. H. Cooke, chairman, G. G. Guild, Henry Freitas, O. P. Cox, L. B. Nainoa and A. D. Cooper. The special resolutions are before it at this time.

Prince Kuhio was present for a few minutes before adjournment. The following names of delegates appear on the temporary roll call:

George R. Carter's announcement of candidacy came as no surprise. He has said repeatedly that his statement would be out after the Progressive platform was issued.

George Kaes was host at an elaborate luncheon at the home of the Hawaiian party yesterday. The luncheon was among the guests and spoke on his candidacy for mayor upon the Republican ticket.

Charles N. Arnold, former member of the board of supervisors is credited with wishing to return to public office. He is a delegate to the Republican platform convention and was asked today when his announcement would be out.

"Pretty soon, I think," he said. Arnold made a good record when he was a supervisor.

One of the many reports from the headquarters of the Lahui party on Pauahi street is that D. K. Kahaulelio, head of the Lahuis, and L. L. McCandless have split and that Kahaulelio has not only lost his job as editor of the Aloha, but also must move himself and his party headquarters out of the McCandless block.

It was reported this morning that a political meeting at the home of William Kamae, near precinct of the Fifth district, was held on Saturday night and that it developed into a series of verbal attacks on "haole government."

It is said that some of the Hawaiians present urged that Hawaiians only be supported for office, and that this has not met with the favor of many other Hawaiians.

Prince Kuhio has issued a sweeping invitation to his supporters to meet with him at his residence at Waikiki next Thursday evening at 8 o'clock. The invitation includes all colors—races and nationalities, the Republican candidate for delegate being anxious to discuss plans for the campaign with all of his adherents.

John H. Wise has assumed the management of Kuhio's campaign.

William Larsen, former chief of detectives and now superintendent of the Huestace-Peck Draying Company, has announced himself for supervisor upon a novel platform. It is breezy and vigorous in language. He comes out for good roads, modern machinery, the frontage tax, centralizing the purchase of supplies in a purchasing department, party affiliation so long as it does not impair efficiency, and to use his own words, no "election bunk."

He says:
"I have nothing to recommend me excepting my knowledge of the needs and wants, and a practical method of applying the remedy and no politics."

ARMY NOTES
The color line is being drawn by the army in the purchase of horses. It is against white or light-colored horses, and in favor of sorrels, browns, bays and even blacks. Because of their disability, white and gray horses are not considered desirable for mounts. In the field they are a mark for sharpshooters, and on that account the quartermaster corps has stopped purchasing light-colored horses.

Officers are permitted to purchase gray horses, however, if they care to take the chance of being shot on the firing line. Some of the members of the general staff are advocating the issuance of a general order entirely prohibiting the use of gray or light-colored horses in the army, as they claim that with even a few officers on light-colored mounts the enemy will be able to locate an entire regiment or a company on scout duty.

Plans are under consideration for the creation of two battleship fleets, one for the Atlantic and one for the Pacific. If this change is made it will be delayed until next year, after the Panama canal has been opened.

In connection with this change in the organization of the fleet is a proposition for transferring the southern drill grounds from Guantanamo, Cuba, to Magdalena bay, on the Pacific coast. In the opinion of some of the officers at the navy department, the Atlantic fleet is becoming unwieldy. Especially may this be true when the battleships now under construction are placed in commission.

Many officers advocate a disposition of the ships of the navy so as to maintain two fleets of equal strength in the two oceans. It is insisted by some authorities on naval affairs that the largest fleet should be maintained in the Pacific ocean, as it is apt to be needed there before it is in the Atlantic ocean. The division of the Atlantic fleet contemplates joint maneuvers of the combined fleets at least once a year in Magdalena bay.

An annual trip through the Panama canal and into Magdalena bay, it is held, would make the service more attractive to enlisted men than the program which has been followed in recent years.

Maj. Gen. Wood, former chief of staff of the army, will go to New York to assume command of the eastern department. Gen. Wood was assigned to command that department on the expiration of his detail as chief of staff last April, but in the meantime he was selected by Secretary Garrison to command the field army, in the event of a Mexican campaign.

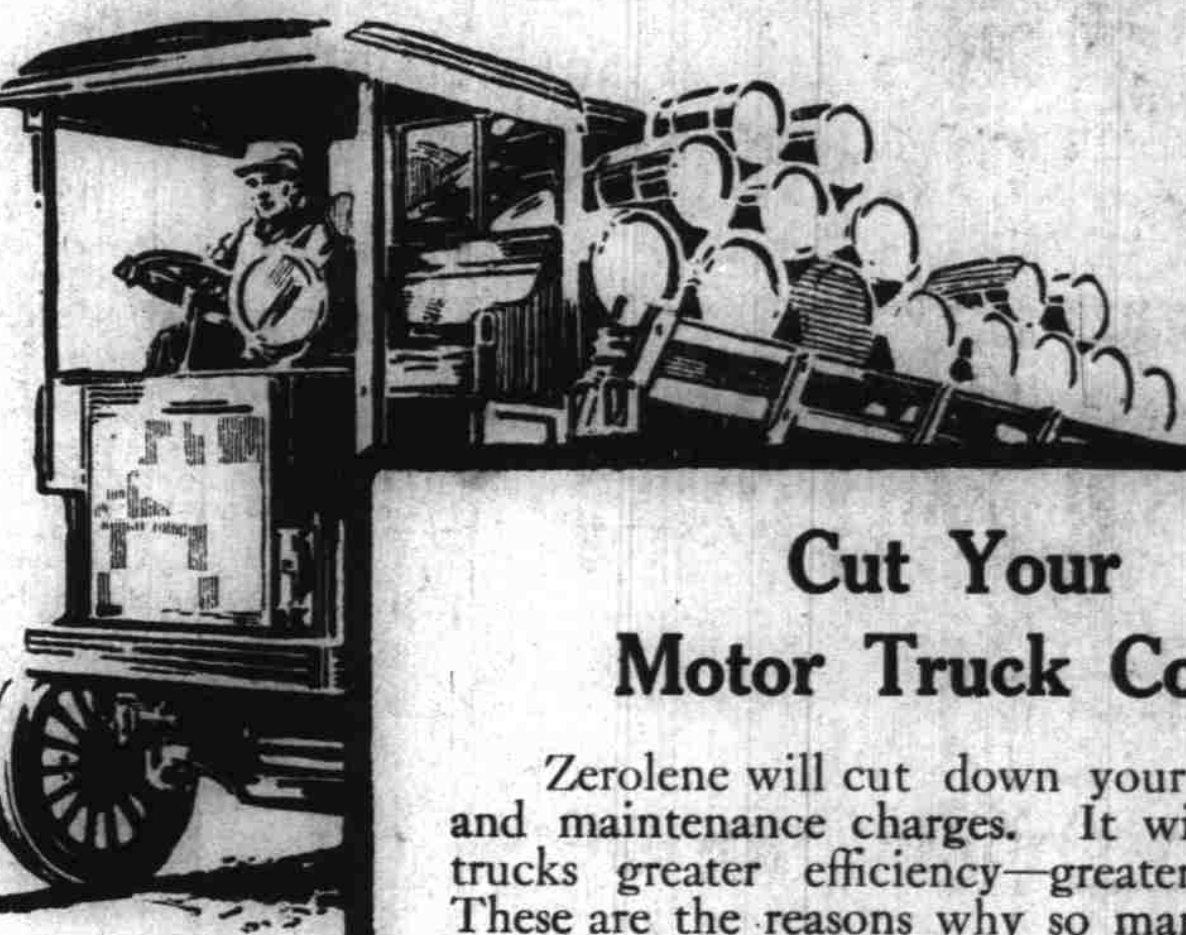

The present determination to have him take up his duties in New York is taken to indicate that officials do not contemplate a forward movement by the American forces in Mexico.

"Yes, ma'am," answered the young scientist, "it's because I wear shoes."
